Planning your Visit to the State House …….. 13
January 2, 2018

Dear Fellow Vermonters,

Thank you for your desire to participate in our democracy and bring your voice to the table. We have the incredible privilege to live in the longest active functioning democracy, but to continue functioning well, it is the responsibility of citizens to participate by working with your legislators, organizing around issues and voting. Over the past year I have been speaking around the state and asking Vermonters to start by budgeting fifteen minutes a week for democracy. I want to thank everyone who makes this commitment, and especially those who give more than fifteen minutes. Last year we saw the power of our collective voices when millions of Americans came out for the women’s march, flooded the airports to protest unjust immigration reform, and successfully spoke against repealing the Affordable Care Act. Your voice, unique perspective, and personal experience are valuable and sharing them will have an impact on the issues you are passionate about.

As a citizen, you have the power to help ensure good legislation by contacting your representatives, talking to your friends or co-workers, writing a letter to the editor or posting on Front Porch Forum, building a grassroots network or even running for public office. This Guide includes information on how to undertake each of these activities.

My office is dedicated to providing opportunities for access and information about issues currently taking place in the legislature. I invite you to:

- Attend ‘Coffee with Constituents’ from 8:30-10:00AM every Friday when the legislature is in session. This is an opportunity to come to my office in the State House, have a cup of coffee or tea, and talk with me and others in the room about issues important to you. We can help you identify which legislators are working on the issue, what committee may be taking testimony, and approaches for the greatest impact.

- Tune in to ‘Lunchtime Town Hall: Weekly Conversation with Lt. Governor David Zuckerman and Guests’ from 12:00-12:30PM streaming live on my Facebook Page @VTLtGov every Wednesday during the legislative session. Weekly conversations will focus on topical bills and you are welcome to post questions before or during via Facebook. This will also be archived for later viewing on my website www.ltgov.vermont.gov.

- Sign-up to receive the Lt. Governor Zuckerman email newsletter by emailing a request to megan.polyte@vermont.gov. If you already receive the newsletter invite some of your friends to sign-up. This is sent every 2-4 weeks and highlights issues, suggests actions, answers questions, and lists upcoming events I will be attending.

Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, has been credited with the statement, “The office of Citizen is the highest in our land.” I hope you will take this call to action and join me in service to our state and country.
Citizen Participation

There are many ways you can impact dialogue and help bring change. Below are some we feel are particularly impactful. If you have questions or need assistance accessing these resources or reaching your legislators, please do not hesitate to contact the Office of Lt. Governor.

Educate Yourself: It is important to take a little time learning about the issues you are passionate about. Learning if a bill has already been introduced, which committee is working on it, and what people are saying about it is important.

- The Vermont Legislative Website (http://legislature.vermont.gov/) is a great place to start. Use the Keyword search to see if any bills have already been introduced. By clicking on the bill you will learn which Senator/s or Representative/s introduced it. You will also learn any action that has been taken on it. You should look to see which committee it was assigned to, who sits on the committee, and if any testimony has been taken. Once you know where a bill stands you can decide how to most effectively help it proceed.

- Pay attention to the news. Bills that are advancing through the legislature are often covered by the media. In addition to your local paper you may want to visit the following online media sources. While you are there, read the comments and feel free to add your thoughts or show your support or opposition to comments already posted.

Share your expertise: Your life experiences, research, and interests provide you with genuine expertise. Legislators often rely on others to better understand the impact of legislation, gather information, and decide their position. Lobbyists are in the State House every day advocating for issues important to their clients. If you are concerned about an issue, please share your thoughts with your legislators.

- Make sure that you are informed on the issue. Take the time to read the background information on the bill or the issue you will be discussing.

- Connect with your Legislators. Some legislators are regularly seen around town, most are accessible by phone, some may require you to set a meeting with them. You can find contact information for your legislators by visiting http://legislature.vermont.gov and searching with the name of your town.

- Never assume you know your legislator’s position. It is great to start the conversation by asking the legislator what they think about the issue and why.

- Share your story. Introduce yourself, share your experiences around the issue, make suggestions of ways you think the issue could be addressed.

- Listen. It is easy to become frustrated or angry when talking with people who disagree with you. Remember that this is a civil conversation, and that you are more likely to get your point across if you remain cool and collected. Listen and let the legislator explain their position.

- Follow-Up. During and after your meeting it is important to thank the legislator for taking time to talk with you and for their service. You may also want to send them links to data that supports your position or reiterate a personal story that is relevant.

Join or form a group around an issue important to you. At the end we have listed some organizations working in Vermont, but a simple google search will find many more. By attending rallies, protests, educational meetings, trainings and more you will build connections and amplify your voice.

"NEVER DOUBT THAT A SMALL GROUP OF THOUGHTFUL, COMMITTED PEOPLE CAN CHANGE THE WORLD INDEED, IT IS THE ONLY THING THAT EVER HAS."

Margaret Mead
Attend a Public Forum, Hearing or Committee Meeting. Public Forums and Hearings are a way for members of committees working on a bill to receive public feedback. They are often held at the State House but sometimes travel around the state. They are open for citizens to watch and participate in. Generally there is an opportunity for citizens to provide testimony, usually it needs to be 3 minutes or shorter. The media also pays attention to attendance as a reflection of public interest - showing up matters.

All Committee meetings are open to the public and your presence sends a message about support or opposition to a bill. When attending committee meetings you are not allowed to speak unless you have been scheduled to testify, or called on by the chair.

Public Forums, Hearings and Committee schedules are available at: http://legislature.vermont.gov/.

Serve the public! From school boards, select boards, and planning commissions, all the way up to senator, representative or governor, every position matters. There are opportunities to be appointed to a board, commission or study committee. We need more Vermonters to lend their time, voice, unique perspective and experience to the conversation. I hope you will consider public service.

VOTE! The best way to ensure that your voice is heard and that you get a say is to vote. In 2014, only 44% of registered VT voters cast their ballot. Voting is of the utmost importance and is an absolute necessity to provoke positive change.

Did you know?

1. The average age of Vermont legislators is 64 years old?

2. Currently only 39% of Vermont legislators are female.

3. In 2015 baby boomers made up 62% of Vermont legislators, but Gen x and Millennials only made up 16%.

If these statistics don’t represent you, run for public office!
Writing to the Public:

• Write a Letter to the Editor. Write a letter to a publication of your choice outlining your expertise and stating your viewpoints. Most letters should be around 200 or 300 words, however, newspapers often have guidelines for what they are looking for in Letters to the Editor, such as specific length requirements — make sure to look these over. Offer evidence to back up your assertions instead of attacking differing opinions. If your letter is in response to an article the newspaper has published, make sure to write and send your letter in a timely fashion.

• Post a Front Porch Forum: Front Porch Forum is a great resource for staying up to date on the news of your neighborhood and is specific to Vermont. Through Front Porch Forum, you can write to your neighbors and friends in your area and help build community regarding the issues you are passionate about.

• Social media as a political platform.

  Facebook is an important and powerful tool to make your voice heard. Many don’t know the power of Facebook to connect constituents with their elected officials. Town Hall is an app within Facebook that works to make these connections, and is extremely easy to use.
BILL INTRODUCTION/ FIRST READING
Any legislator from either the House or Senate can sponsor a bill to amend Vermont law. The bill is assigned a number and then introduced on the floor of the sponsor’s chamber during first reading.

OTHER CHAMBER CONSIDERATION
After passage in one chamber, the bill remains in that chamber for one legislative day and then the bill — as it passed the first chamber — goes through the same process in the other chamber. If the second chamber proposes any amendments, the bill must go back to the first chamber so it can consider those proposed amendments, and the first chamber may agree with those amendments or agree and propose additional amendments.

BILL REFERRAL
Upon first reading, the bill is referred to a standing committee of the chamber based on the bill’s subject matter. The bill may be subsequently committed to other committees based on its subject matter.

3rd Reading
Third reading happens the legislative day after second reading and it is another chance for members of the chamber to propose amendments and debate the bill. After voting on any amendments and then reading the bill a third time, the chamber votes by majority vote on whether the bill should pass.

SECOND READING
After it is voted out of committee, the bill is sent to the chamber second reading. A member of a committee to which the bill was committed and considered will report the committee’s recommen members of the chamber may propose amendments to the bill committee’s recommended amendments; and the bill and a amendments are debated. The chamber will take majority votes amendments and whether to read the bill a third time.

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE
If the two chambers are unable to agree on the bill or the proposed amendments, a committee of conference may be appointed in which three members of each chamber will attempt to reach agreement on a final version — called a committee of conference report — which is then submitted to both chambers for approval. The chambers cannot amend the committee of conference report and will adopt or reject it by majority vote.

GOVERNOR’S CONSIDERATION
If both chambers agree on a final version of the bill, the bill passes and it is sent to the Governor who normally will sign it into law, allow it to become law without his or her signature, or veto it. If the bill is vetoed, the House and Senate may override the veto by a two-thirds vote in each chamber.

BILL ENACTMENT
Once the Governor signs the bill into law or allows it to become without his or her signature, or if the chambers successfully override the Governor’s veto, the bill becomes an official law Vermont and is assigned an act number.

Planning Your Visit to the State House

Visiting the State House is a great way to learn about issues you care about first hand. It also provides a way for you to interact with legislators and issue advocates. Visiting the State House is an important step in political involvement, as it demonstrates firsthand how open and accessible your government is.

Legislative Session: January 3, 2018– Mid May

1) Is There a Specific Issue You Care About?
   Educate yourself about the issue. Familiarize yourself with the issue advocates and legislators that are involved in the issue.

2) Check Committee Schedules
   Use legislature.vermont.gov as a key resource. Use the search bar to search a bill number or issue keyword – the search will provide information on the current committee discussing the bill. Check committee schedules under the committee tab.

3) Make Appointments with Legislators and Other Government Officials
   It's easy to contact a legislator to make an appointment to meet with them by calling them or sending a quick email. Legislators appreciate hearing constituent voices. The Lt. Governor hosts coffee with constituents in his office every Friday 8:30 am – 10 am – show up and make your voice heard!

4) Observe Committee Meetings and Floor Debates
   The wonderful thing about the Vermont State House is that anybody can observe committee meetings and floor debates. Simply walk into any committee room to observe. Take note that there are no electronics allowed in the Senate chamber.
Special thanks to Emily von Weise and Catharine Greenberg for their dedication to democracy and assistance with creating this guide.
